

Data Protection

Introduction

Optimizory Technologies Pvt. Ltd. is in business of providing tools and other software applications and the business model is based on license sales and subscriptions to services provided online to users.

In this process, we possess the following categories of data for supporting our business

- User Data for invoicing, license management, product support and for providing product information.
- Data stored by users in the process of using the online services provided by us.

The user data is used / processed only for the purposes stated above.

This document provides an insight into the aspects related to data protection.

Scope

Subsequent sections will cover information related to policies, procedures and various options available to users.